

Adera and Sun Life's LEED Certified High-Tech Hub Nears Completion

Eastlake Campus unveils LEED Certification & Pacific Salmon Foundation Donation at Final Phase Wall Tilt

VANCOUVER, British Columbia, Sept. 22, 2017 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- Adera Development Corporation, one of BC's leading multi-disciplinary real estate organizations, is in the final stages of completing Burnaby high-tech hub, Eastlake Campus. The tech hub is already home to major technology companies such as BlackBerry, Toshiba, Sugoi, Race Face Performance Products and Canadian medical imaging equipment manufacturer Novadaq Technologies, among others.

Eastlake attracts high-tech companies due to its campus-styled complex, complete with picnic areas, walking trails and green spaces just minutes from the Skytrain. Zoning permits a wide variety of light industrial and high-tech uses meeting the diverse needs of its tenants. Modern architectural features are complemented with high speed fibre optics and LEED certification, aligning sustainability for all companies occupying the space.

“We are beyond excited to be unveiling our third phase of the Eastlake project by showcasing a wall tilt to see more of these incredible buildings taking shape” says Eric Andreasen, Vice President of Marketing and Sales at Adera Development Corporation. “We are passionate about our project and our teams have spent countless hours ensuring the Eastlake Campus tech hub will be the ideal space for emerging and existing tech companies.”

Who: Adera, Sun Life, Cushman & Wakefield and featured tenants will be present at the event to share insight and comments about the long-awaited tech hub

What: LEED Certification Celebration and Phase 3 Wall Tilt Viewing, with a Pacific Salmon Foundation donation announcement

When: Thursday, September 28, 2017 from 11:00am - 12:00pm

Where: Eastlake Campus – 8335 Eastlake Drive, Burnaby

Earlier this year, Adera Development Corporation was awarded the Design Excellence Award, the top honour in Canada at the 2017 Canadian Home Builders' Association (CHBA) National Awards for Housing Excellence.
